SALESMANSHIP, A LECTURE. FAINT AND LOW IN WALL ST. HE MIGHT KILL SOME ONE. WANTED, MORE PRISONS.

—By Arthur Brisbane—
(Copyright 1929, By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A BIG word in American business is "SALESMANSHIP." Salesmanship distributes goods, creates a demand for more. Advertising is good salesmanship. Convincing conversation that knows when to STOP is good salesmanship.

Recently Henry Ford described Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, in few words, as a "good salesman." After luncheon with W. R. Hearst at the inauguration of the new Hearst newspaper building in Detroit, Mr. Ford took Mr. Hearst through the Ford factory and salesmanship was discussed.

"Swope, head of the General Electric company, is a great salesman," said Henry Ford. "That company has two wonderful men in Owen B. Young and Gerard Swope. Swope came here and in less than fifteen minutes sold me a 140,000-horsepower turbine engine, convincing me that his company could build it for me better than I could build it myself."

To be a good salesman, the first thing is to LISTEN.

The second thing is to TALK CONVINCINGLY.

The third and most important is to know when to STOP TALKING.

The pulse of speculation beats faint and low in Wall street. Only 2,284,250 shares were sold yesterday. Much of that selling was done to "take losses" and deduct them from income tax.

This selling for income tax deduction, causing a drop in the government's expected receipts, will present a problem to Secretary Mellon with his cut of $100,000,000 in taxes.

However, he is used to problems and to solving them.

Gone from Wall street, for the moment, is the hope of regular "ten million share days." And gone the hope of Stock Exchange seats worth $1,000,000.

The Street had one sixteen million share day, and sorrow. But that goes up, comes down, and that goes down, comes up.

Brokers who keep these seats will see them worth a million dollars.

Investors that buy stocks representing good United States properties will see prices come back and go higher.

Gamblers will suffer as gamblers always do.

Carnera, Italian giant, weighing 269 pounds, six feet ten inches tall, is forbidden to box again in England. They like the good natured Italian, but are afraid he might kill some man in the ring, and hurt the "noble sport."

What an advertisement that will be for the Italian prize-fighting giant when he arrives in America.

Here, if you knock a man down on the sidewalk, with no gate receipts, that's a crime.

If you knock a man down and even kill him in the prize ring, with big gate receipts, and a rakeoff for the right politicians, that's "sport" and perfectly legal.

Mr. Mitchell, President Hoover's Democratic attorney general, wants $7,000,000 to build new prisons for the United States. He says the problem of prisons is the major one before the Department of Justice.

In Great Britain they are closing prisons, renting prison buildings for other purposes, because crime is diminishing.

It was hoped prohibition would produce such results here, only on a bigger scale. Thus far the hope is not realized.

Germany says Clarence Dillon, of New York, refuses to lend $100,000,000, money needed for Germany's December obligations. Germany's Finance Minister, Helfferding, is expected to resign and the whole cabinet with him.

McCULLOCH IN SENATE DEBUT

New Ohio Senator Starts Legislative Duties; Introduces Bills

Washington, Dec. 21.—Senator Roscoe B. McCulloch (R) of Ohio, made his debut Friday as a "father" of legislation.

The new Ohio senator introduced 5 bills, his first as a member of the senate. Four of the measures were pension bills for William R. Spencer, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Sally R. McAllister, of Chesapeake; Mrs. Emma W. Gates, of Genoa and Mrs. Dora Keaton, of Washington Court House. The other was a claim bill in behalf of George W. Allison, of Columbus.

McCulloch also presented two sets of petitions to the senate from the constituents of his state, one pleading for an increase in Civil and Spanish-American war pensions, the other requesting creation of a federal department of education. The petitions were referred to the senate committees dealing with the necessary legislation.

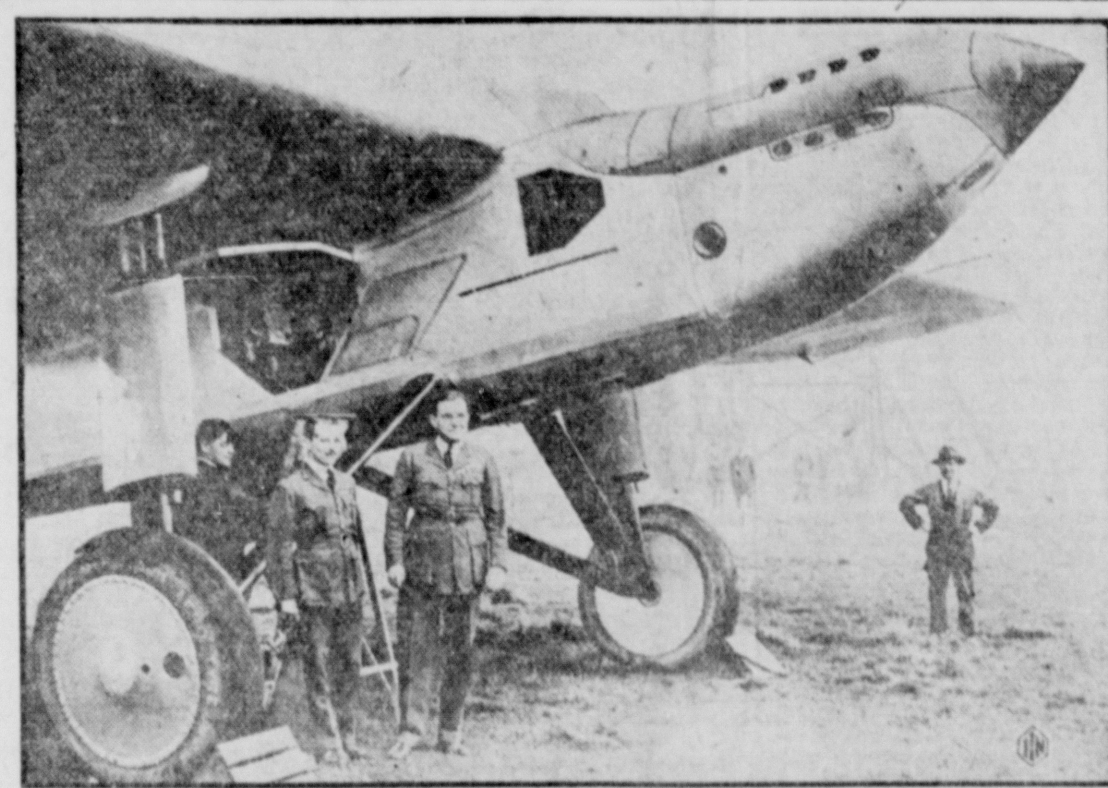

Christmas Atmosphere Prevails In Wall Street; Bonuses Due

New York, Dec. 21.—Wall street's 1929 Christmas spirit is undimmed. It is just as cheery as if the late unpleasantness had never happened, a tone of the financial district revealed today. It's going to be a "big Christmas" in "the street of gold."

Yuletide chatter is in the air. Brokers and bankers are forgetting the recent debacle that sent stock prices crashing down. They are looking to 1930 with optimism and "let's go" is the slogan.

Employees are talking of the bonuses they are to receive. Christmas holly adorns the windows of banks and brokerage houses; presents are being distributed with a generous hand and the scarlet-garbed Salvation Army lassies tinkling bells before donation pots are finding the make surprisingly heavy.

Non-Stop Flight Attempt Fatal

USING a huge Royal Air Force monoplane, Squadron Leader A. G. Jones-Williams and Flight Lieutenant A. H. Jenkins hopped off from Cranwell airbase, Lincolnshire, starting a 6,000 mile non-stop flight to Capetown, South Africa. The two distinguished pilots met death shortly after dark Tuesday night when their craft crashed into a mountain side in the region of Tunis, Northern Africa.

BANK ROBBER'S CAPTURE FROM BRIDE'S LETTER

Youth Admits Stealing Cash from Ohio Institution

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 21.—A bride's letter home to her mother today had caused the arrest of Able Fleming, 18, of Fostoria, Ohio, who is wanted in connection with the robbery of the Van Lue bank in Seneca county, Ohio, just four days ago.

Acting upon a tip which was supplied by Sheriff O. E. Willford, of Fostoria, a police squad raided a luxurious room in a downtown hotel and arrested Fleming and his school-girl bride, formerly Catherine Lembright, 16, of Fostoria, whom Fleming married October 14. He denied all knowledge of the holdup at first, but later, he boastfully confessed. He insisted that his bride knew nothing of the robbery. However, police are keeping her in custody pending the arrival of Sheriff Willford.

Fleming was stripped down to his slacks underwear when he finally burst into a voluble confession of how he and an accomplice got $562 when they held up the Van Lue bank. They divided the loot and split company, he said. He poked fun at Fostoria police and indicated he had read of accounts of the robbery with avid interest. He blamed a bright lumberjack coat which he wore as leading to his identification, and he added:

"But I would have not away from those dumb Fostoria police if some son-of-a-gun hadn't tipped them off. Just wait until I get my hands on that bird."

Police Watch Home
Fleming does not know that the "dumb Fostoria police" watched the home of his bride at Fostoria and learned his whereabouts from a letter which she had written to her mother.

Government Conducts Inquiry In Plane Crash

Escaped Convict On Way Back To Columbus Prison

Columbus, O., Dec. 21.—After being at liberty for approximately two years, Mike Stanna, alias Harry Lowell, 27, a "life-terminer" of the Ohio state penitentiary, who walked away after he had been made a trusty, is under arrest in St. Louis today, according to penitentiary officials here.

Parole Officer Evans, of the penitentiary, is enroute to St. Louis and will return Stanna to the prison here. Stanna, when first arrested at St. Louis, denied that he was an escaped convict but he later admitted it. He was convicted of participation in a Cleveland payroll robbery in which a paymaster was shot and killed. Stanna, according to the criminal identification bureau here, is also wanted in Galveston, Texas, where he is said to have escaped from jail while serving a 35-year sentence for a jewel robbery.

HARBOR TRAFFIC HALTED BY FOG

Seaman Killed, Two Saved During Four Days On New York Coast

New York, Dec. 21.—Death of a seaman, the rescue of two others and the wrecking of a trawler were revealed as a cold snap and sunny skies routed the dense fog and sun for four days hung over New York harbor and environs, paralyzing traffic.

The wrecked trawler was the William A. Stephens which cracked up on a sand bar at Fire Island inlet. The man who perished was Frank Blacket. Two others aboard were rescued.

Another trawler, the Josie B. with three aboard, is missing and coast guard stations along the Jersey coast have been asked to watch for her.

At the same time steamship inspectors of the Federal Bureau of Navigation began a searching inquiry into the ramming and sinking of the Furness-Bermuda liner, Fort Victoria by the Clyde-Vallory liner, Algonquin in the fog off Ambrose Lightship late Wednesday.

Believe Aviator Was At Fault, Although Experienced

Washington, Dec. 21.—Amidst the gloom that pervaded the army's air station at Bolling field, the special board of inquiry investigating the crash of the giant tri-motored Fokker, instantly killing Rep. William K. Kaynor, of Mass., and four others, settled down today to an almost hopeless task of trying to determine the cause of the tragedy.

Meanwhile, funeral arrangements were being completed for the victims. The bodies of Rep. Kaynor and Stanley B. Lowe, his secretary, were at their Springfield, Mass. home. Capt. Harry A. Dinger, veteran army pilot, will be buried at Arlington National cemetery at 10 a. m. Monday. The body of Arthur A. McGill, friend of Rep. Kaynor, and a last minute guest for the trip that ended fatally before it got well started, is expected to be taken home today by R. K. McGill, of Boston, a brother, who arrived here last night.

Private Also Killed
The fifth victim, Private Vladimir Kuzma, of Shelton, Conn., is at Bolling field, pending receipts of word from his father, Theodore Kuzma, as to his disposition. The board of inquiry into the accident is expected to report by March 15.

TRAFFIC IN OHIO HARD HIT BY STORM; TRAVEL ON RAILROAD DELAYED

Auto Accidents Many In And Near To This City

LIVERPOOL YOUTH BADLY INJURED

Trains Through Salem Running Two to Three Hours Late

With holiday motor and railroad traffic nearing its peak, Ohio and adjoining states are attempting to restore conditions to normal following a severe sleet and snow storm of the week.

City streets and roads in this vicinity are still in bad condition and numerous accidents have resulted.

Clarence Landers, 19, of 1161 Harker ave., East Liverpool, sustained a fracture to his right leg in an automobile accident, which occurred early Friday evening on the Lisbon rd.

Thrown Through Shield
He is reported that the machine in which Landers was riding skidded and that he was thrown through the windshield.

Landers was taken to Salem City hospital for x-ray treatment. Later he was removed to East Liverpool hospital.

Many other accidents of less serious nature occurred in this vicinity with wrecking companies taxed heavily.

Railroad traffic through Salem is in the worst condition of the present year, according to Penn.

CONGRESS TAKES 2-WEEK VACATION

Tasks Remain Undone as Solons Depart For Home States

Washington, Dec. 21.—The 71st congress turned homeward today for a two weeks' vacation with its long session well under way, but the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill still an unsolved problem for leaders of all factions.

With little progress made on the tariff bill since the regular session opened on Dec. 2, senate leaders predicted action being made in the after Jan. 6 and that the bill will be finally written into law by March 15.

The Democrat-Insurgent coalition of the senate, still dominating tariff legislation despite breaks in their ranks recently, are hopeful they can complete work on the measure in February, and leave a few weeks before March 15 to reach an agreement in the house.

Many "old guard" Republicans adhered firmly to their predictions that differences between the senate and house can never be reconciled. Rep. Garner of Texas, Democratic leader of the house, has launched a campaign to form a western Republican-Southern Democratic coalition in that body to retain the chance before March 15 to reach an agreement in the house.

In his first open effort to bring about a coalition, Rep. Garner failed to gain assurance from Rep. Ramseyer (R) of Iowa, member of the house ways and means committee and a farm bloc power, that he would support the senate coalition's stand on rates.

Report Unfounded

London, Dec. 21.—There is no foundation for the report that Germany will be represented by an observer at the forthcoming five-power naval disarmament conference here, it was stated in authoritative circles today.

Jubilee Continued By Pope In Celebrating With Public Mass

Vatican City, Dec. 21.—Continuing his celebration of the jubilee of his ordination as a Catholic priest, Pope Pius XI today said mass publicly in St. Peter's cathedral for the first time.

The ceremony was held at 9:30 o'clock this morning. It was witnessed by a throng which filled the cathedral's interior to overflowing, although no one was admitted who had not received a formal invitation. Special sections were reserved for the diplomatic corps and the nobility.

The usual ceremonial occurred with several monsignors assisting his holiness with sacraments.

The event, following on the heels of the pope's surprise visit to the Basilica of St. John Lateran yesterday, excited the curiosity of the Italian populace.

PANIC FOLLOWS RIVER COLLISION

Investigate Wreck Cause On Hudson; Several Are Injured

New York, Dec. 21.—Investigation was begun today into the ramming of the New York Central ferryboat West Point, with 700 passengers aboard, by a heavily-laden car float in Hudson river here last night.

Nearby tugboats, attracted by the whistles of distress, quickly came alongside and all passengers were safely removed from the damaged ship without any serious casualties.

For a few minutes after the collision a panic among the passengers threatened to turn the accident into a disaster as the calmer passengers reached for life preservers, the more nervous grabbed fire axes and smashed through window frames on the lower deck in order to make openings through which to jump to the decks of rescuing craft.

A few passengers were painfully cut and many scratched by the jagged glass.

The West Point, brilliantly lighted, was only a few minutes out from shore, when rammed by the car float and a large hole slashed in her port side amidships.

Twelve automobiles aboard the ferry were removed when she was towed into her slip.

ROLLINS' SALARY FORMS BASIS OF ACTION IN COURT

Councilman Served For Nearly Two Years Without Pay

OTHER POSITION HELD AS CAUSE

Solon Has Been Active In City Body For Term

City Auditor Helen R. Woerther's action in withholding the salary of Frank L. Rollins, First ward city councilman, was sustained in an opinion rendered today by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones.

Judge Lones gave a ruling that Rollins' election to his position in city council was illegal, due the fact that he already held public office as janitor of Prospect public school.

The judge gave the councilman's ineligibility to hold council seat as the basis for his opinion in refusing to issue mandamus proceedings forcing the auditor to pay Rollins the back salary which it was alleged was due him.

The decision was rendered after City Solicitor Cecil K. Scott filed a petition for a mandamus action with the judge.

Scott asked for the issuance of an order which would force Miss Woerther to pay Rollins $197.98 in back salary.

Judge Lones' ruling in part stated as follows:

"General Code, Section 4207, provides among other things, that a member of council shall not hold any other public office or employment except that of notary public or member of militia."

Mr. Rollins was employed by the board of education in a school building and was paid from the public treasury. That was certain.

PLANES RESCUE MAROONED FOLK

20 Passengers of Ship Taken to Island By Two Airplanes

Sandusky, O., Dec. 21.—Taking the only means which would assure them of getting to their homes in time for Christmas, 20 of the 30 Kelley's Island residents, who had been marooned here since late Thursday when they were rescued from the ice-blocked passenger ship, Tourist, were taken to the island Friday afternoon by airplane.

Two airplanes have been provided by Sheriff John W. Parker from the airport which he owns here. Each machine will carry two passengers and will make as many trips as are necessary to get the stranded islanders back to their homes. The island is about 10 miles from the mainland.

The passengers, most of whom had come to the mainland to do their Christmas shopping, had been faced with the prospect of spending Christmas away from home, following their perilous escape from the Tourist. The islanders, including five women and two children, loaded with their Christmas purchases, were forced to crawl over dangerous ice floes to the rescue ship. Messengers when the Tourist was jammed by the ice into shallow waters yesterday.

Marine men who have been attempting to free the Tourist from the ice grip, despaired of success this afternoon. Indications are that unless a change in weather breaks up the ice jam, the ship is frozen in for the winter.

THE WEATHER

The weather, old stand-by of conversation and a blanket alibi of proved merit, invariably is accused of one of several things when on trial before an informal jury of persons with an average age in excess of fifty years. There is rather general agreement that winters are milder or more severe, or that the lines of demarcation between the seasons are changing.

Charles P. Marvin, chief of the United States Weather Bureau, expresses his opinion in a recent magazine article that the "good old winters" and "good old summers," vaguely remembered by old timers of each generation, are all a myth. "If the curve of daily weather fluctuations from Adam until now were averaged by centuries, it would probably approximate a straight line."

The thermometer is only about 200 years old. Records covering a wide area in the United States have been collected only since 1870, when the United States Weather Bureau was established. The oldest of the European meteorological stations, that of France, is only fifteen years older. It is apparent that conclusions based on the past sixty years but since a forty year period is considered sufficient to establish a normal temperature for a district, they merit recognition.

Weather trends are responsible for the fallacy that weather is changing. The recurrence of these trends in the past sixty years forms the basis for the claims that winters are not what they were and summers not nearly so hot. These conditions are, however, regional. An open winter in one section is accompanied by a hard winter in another section and the average remains the same. This is shown in weather bureau statistics.

Concerning the encroachment of winter on spring, Professor Marvin states that a calculation for New Haven, Connecticut, and the eastern part of the United States for the period 1870 to 1919 revealed that the average coldest day occurred on January 19, which is nine days earlier than an estimate made during the period from 1778 to 1865. The accuracy of this previous estimate is questionable, but there is evidence of a slight change.

Surveys of short periods of weather constitute a mere footnote in the history of a climate. After man has accumulated 500 or 1,000 years of observations, he will be able to read clearly the meaning of the weather and its moods. For the present, he will have to be contented with the conclusions of those best qualified to guess what it is all about.

SELF DEFENSE

Every incident concerning the conquest of a sneak thief, a burglar, a racketeer, or a big-time robber by a citizen is welcome news. The frustration of an attempted street car holdup in Canton by a motorman is a fine example of the latent power present in every resident of any community to discourage crime.

In this particular case, it is especially striking because there are indications that the two weaklings who arranged the holdup were on their first job. The set-back may give them a scare that will keep them out of mischief for a while. Just as soon as the parasites of society realize that they are not the big, brave desperadoes public lethargy has made of them, crime will go into a sickly decline. It can best be started by a showing of courage and resistance on the part of the victims.

The United States heaved a sigh of relief when Jesse James and his ruffians were safely disposed of and thanked its stars that highwaymen were under control. It was evident that the best way to rout the lawless was for the lawful to beat them at their own game, to shoot them with their own guns if need be. The duty successfully performed, the public turned its attention to other things and in the interim lawlessness has bloomed in a way that even Mr. James never dreamed of. The tragedy is that the public seems to be too busy with other affairs to care very much.

It is an unusual day when a dozen, or more reports do not filter in from here and there that a daring bank robbery has been performed successfully, or that the patrons of some public establishment have not been lined up and relieved of their valuables—and all in an audacious manner that relegates the banditry of old to obscurity. If Americans traveling abroad were to suffer such depredations, their wrath would never cease boiling; at home it is accepted as part of the game. The country seems to have lost its genius for self defense, with the exception of a few scattered instances.

One night recently the car of a Hallowell, Maine, man ran off a roadway and after grazing one telephone pole mowed down four more. He must have been going somewhere.

Governor Fisher, of Pennsylvania, says that to dispute with the senate "degenerates" would mean loss of self-respect. Isn't the governor afraid that a good Quaker like his appointee, Mr. Grubbs, may become contaminated by such associates?

Trotsky is said to have recovered his health and to show his old fighting spirit, but he is a lot like the fellow all dressed up and nowhere to go. There is no land to which he can go and start fighting.

Professor August Vollmer, head of the police research department of the University of Chicago, finds that there are 1,000,000 criminals in the United States and that Chicago lacks her fair share of them. Tut, tut, August! What your city lacks in number is far more than compensated for by their matchless activity.

A Washington dispatch says that the United States army is still without a tank fit for battle. That's rather remarkable, considering the number of tanks in the country seemingly ever ready to battle.

A Paris cable says that Pola Negri and her prince have become reconciled, from which we take it that we will have to wade through their troubles, as committed to print, all over again.

What Others Say

WHAT DOES CHURCH MEAN?

We are not asking as to the benefit of the organization called the church, just at this time, but for the present purpose we are satisfied to confine the question to just the house of worship.

What does the church edifice mean to you? Does it mean just one more building, like an industrial plant, a store room or a lodge room? Does it fall into that class in your mind, as you pass it from day to day, or do you more nearly class it with the home and the school, or set it off in a class by itself?

At first thought, it may not seem to be a material matter as to how one values the church, as a building, but a more careful thinking will convince one of the fallacy of such a conclusion. Does it matter to you how you regard your own home; that is to say, your dwelling place? Do you have enough respect for it to keep it in repair, painted, and in a generally well-kept condition, or do you just allow time and weather to do its worst, inside and out? Do you think enough of your lodge home, your country club, your club rooms of whatever kind to keep them in good repair? What do they mean to you—just places to spend your time? No, there is an association of ideas, a feeling of sentiment, an attachment that appeals to the inner man that calls him within their walls. They are more than that; just another building and if they were not, there would be little to them.

As you pass your church, or any church, is there not a feeling of respect, of solemnity, of dignity, of poise, of reverence comes over you—a feeling that does not attach to any other edifice? If there is not, then it means nothing more to you than "just another building," something like a factory, a garage or a filling station. But we have sufficient faith in mankind to believe that in the breast of a very few, if any, does such a feeling, really exist. Men are human, after all, no matter what they pretend to put on as an outside appearance.

The church should be considered (and we believe is) as a place of soul rest, a place to be respected, revered, a meeting ground of those who want to do right and be right; a place where man may more easily worship and honor his Creator.

A church is more than a place to go just to hear the preacher, or just to sing hymns. If you would know just what the church should mean to you, read Psalm 84. —East Palestine Daily Leader.

Just Difference in Methods. In this country a distinguished delegation notifies a candidate that he has been elected. Down in Mexico the appearance of troops notifies a candidate his rival has been successful.

The Stars Say—

Sunday, December 22

Sunday's horoscope may not be read as a propitious one as it is likely there will be inharmonious and friction in domestic, social or romantic affiliations. It is possible the mature may be downcast or depressed thereby provoking some disagreeable situation. Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which their own depressing melancholy moods may provoke domestic, social or affectional discord or strife. They should cultivate an optimistic outlook and attempt constructive work against all gloomy forebodings which are ephemeral.

A child born on this day may be disposed to depress its own circumstances and thereby thwart its own advancement, unless it have an optimistic and cheerful attitude in life instilled.

Monday, December 23

Monday's astrological forecast is a conflicting one, with much encouragement for expansion and new undertakings, but with the promise also of many stubborn obstacles to confront. Employment is under an adverse ruling and there is danger of sudden change or unwelcome removal or journey. But with perseverance the benignant sway of Jupiter may offset all disadvantages.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of unforeseen change and removal, with possibly the employment in jeopardy. But new projects are well aspected and the finances are encouraged under a benignant rule of Jupiter.

A child born on this day should be ambitious and enterprising, but may have many difficult situations in life to surmount. It may be restless and changeable.

Answers to Health Queries D. L. Q.—Will picking the eye brows cause cancer? A.—No.

MRS. L. W. Q.—A baby of two constantly sucks the entire length of two fingers unless she is eating or playing—is there any danger attached to the habit aside from the fact that she is disfiguring the shape of her mouth? A.—No danger, but it is apt to spoil her appearance if the habit is not broken. Try painting the fingers with tincture of asafoetida—this has a most unpleasant taste and should be effective in breaking the habit.

In the Churches

First Baptist, Lincoln and State Street, A. C. Westphal, pastor.

Upon the birth of Christ pivots the history of the world and the destiny of the soul. If Jesus had not been born, He could not have died, and if He had not died He could not have been raised from the dead, and the word of God says that if Christ be not risen from the dead, then is our faith in vain and we are yet in our sins.

Fourth Sunday in Advent.

Sunday school, 9:45 (Luke 2:8-20). J. A. Feht, supt.

The record in Holy Scriptures of the Birth of Jesus, our Saviour is the sweetest story ever told. By this method of the coming of the Son of God to earth, the importance and value of the child is placed forcibly before our minds.

There has been a new appraisal of the child since Jesus came. This is right and proper.

Morning worship, 11. Service of Holy Baptism for children. Sermon, "Jesus, Thy Mighty."

The helplessness of the infant Jesus is often stressed so much, that we overshadow the Divine glory and power that accompanied Him from His advent into this world. The forerunner, John the Baptist, had the truth clearly in his mind. The perfection, might and glory of Jesus was of such a nature that John felt his inferiority.

The Lord "which is and which was and which is to come—that loveth us and loved us from our sins—Who cometh with the clouds" and no preparation for that Advent can be worthy of the name which is not based upon the personal possession of the "Peace" which issues from our being "in Him." If Christ come to us now, we are ready for His coming at the Second Advent.

Doomed Men Hear

Slayer Go To Chair

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 21.—Five men doomed for electrocution in the prison here, know today what a man's death agonies must be like. Last night, through an error in prison plans, they plainly heard Peter Kudzinowski pay with his life for the murder of a seven year old boy.

Although Kudzinowski was officially electrocuted for the slaying of little Joseph Sterelli, he had also confessed to murdering a man in Scranton, Pa., and to killing a 3-year-old girl.

Because someone had forgotten to close the iron door leading from the cell block to the execution chamber, the five condemned murderers at Trenton could follow with their ears every move in Kudzinowski's terrible ordeal which they soon must face for themselves. Only a frail curtain kept them from seeing the death march.

Fleming said he was "sore on his home town" and that caused him to decide to participate in the hold-up. He stated that it was his first criminal venture.

Police after scanning his confession added that it would be his last for a long time, but Fleming did not seem to care. He was even melancholy when he said, "I'll be home for Christmas after all."

PLANE CRASH

cident is composed of Maj. Robert A. Hale, medical corps, flight surgeon of Bolling Field; Capt. Ernest Clark and Lieut. Ronald A. Hicks, air corps.

The board is confronted with many difficulties in determining what caused the tragedy. All on board the ill-fated plane were killed instantly.

The crash came from such a low altitude that the witnesses who watched the plane take off hardly had time to get a picture of what happened.

Within a few minutes after the bodies were extricated, ground crews began removing the debris and threw it on the dump, and cranes hoisted away the three motors which were buried in the ground.

Removed Wreckage

Army officials said this was necessary because the plane fell almost in the center of the field and there were other planes in the air at the time which might need the space in which to make a safe landing. Nevertheless, the board will be unable to determine whether a broken "stick" in Capt. Dinger's hand caused the crash, or if there were some other defect to which might be attributed the accident.

Theories differ as to what happened. The report made to Assistant Secretary of War F. Truher Davidson, in charge of aeronautics, whose aerial plane it was, indicated that the plane had been thoroughly tested as to motors, safety devices, controls, struts and the other tests usually given when a plane takes off.

War department records show, officials said, that more than sixty percent of similar accidents are caused by the "human equation," some act of either commission or omission. Dinger was described by Davidson as being the most experienced pilot of tri-motored transports in the army, and because of this Dinger's fellow aviators are inclined to believe if the human equation entered into it, then he must have gotten dazed, fainted or had some sudden ailment.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

—By Wanda Barton

Mushrooms, a delightful addition to holiday menus are different from most vegetables in this—that they are better-flavored when dried. Almost all other vegetables are best flavored when fresh, and the fresher the better. But for some reason the dried mushrooms develop their particularly delightful savor and so they are more desirable than the fresh for soups or sauces. However, they are not nearly so attractive in appearance as the fresh variety, and for service as a separate dish the fresh mushrooms are preferable.

You can obtain mushrooms in all sorts of guises. Fresh for table use as a separate dish. Dried or canned to be used in making soups or sauces. Bottled in oil or butter to be combined in a salad. Or mushroom paste in tubes to be added in small quantities as an additional seasoning. Mushroom catsup is a liquid condiment to be mixed with sauces or dressings as one uses Worcestershire, or walnut catsup. And those who are fond of the mushroom flavor don't tire of it any more than a meat-lover tires of meat. Dried mushrooms may be bought by the ounce—a pound costs quite a bit. But an ounce is all one needs for most purposes. Soaked overnight the dried mushrooms swell in bulk a good deal. When buying the dried variety, be sure to select the clean, well-shaped variety that come on a string. Dealers in foreign delicacies usually have them. Sometimes they come in large cans and then they are mixed up with the stems and the less perfect mushrooms. These require washing in several cold waters to make sure they are thoroughly clean. The whole caps, bought on a string, need less washing.

Broken wires west of here resulted in a tie-up of an entire division of the railroad Thursday.

Transportation throughout the state was still in a bad way today. Conditions in some sections had reached serious proportions, despite the tireless efforts of armies of snow shovelers to clear the roads and streets.

More than 150 automobiles in various sections of the state—especially west of Toledo—are snowlocked, according to estimates today.

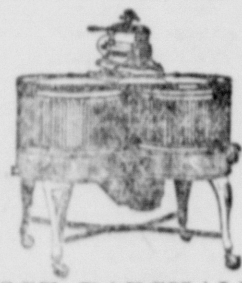

Drifts on some of the roads cut off Toledo trapped scores of automobiles. Snow was piled so high, according to the reports, that snow plows were unable to cope with the situation and battalions of men were put to work with shovels.

Nerwalk reported that several cars were snowlocked near that city. Work of clearing the roads in Huron county was undertaken by forces from the state highway department who sent a giant centrifugal snow plow to buck the mountains of snow.

SENATORIAL DRY LEADERS DIVIDE

Split In Ranks Revealed In Senator's Action On Resolution

Washington, Dec. 21.—A sharp division in the ranks of the senatorial dry leaders was revealed when Senator Jones (R) of Washington, blocked action of the Senate resolution calling on President Hoover's law enforcement commission for an immediate report on the progress of its inquiry into prohibition conditions.

Senator Harris (D) of Georgia, who once sponsored a $50,000,000 appropriation for prohibition enforcement, denounced the action of the president's commission in holding its sessions behind locked doors. He declared he would sponsor a move next year to hold up the commission's appropriation unless it terminated its policy of secrecy.

Jones, author of the famous "five and ten" law, blocked Harris' resolution on the ground that it carried a "rebuke" to President Hoover.

Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, another dry leader, joined in assailing the commission's inactivity. He too, announced he would "insist that before this commission gets another dollar from congress, it make a report to congress."

Salem Defeated By Dover In Over-Time Contest By 23-21 Score

Varsity Tossers Drop Third Straight Game; Show Strong Defense

Salem High varsity basketball team bowed in defeat in their third consecutive game, dropping a hard-fought overtime struggle to the touting Dover High aggregation by a 23-21 score, at the Salem High battleground Friday night.

Dover, which for the last two seasons has been rated among the peers in Buckeye state basketball circles, and which in the 1926-27 season was the state championship team, was forced into an extra period before the final outcome was decided.

Regular playing time ended with the teams tied at 21-21, two foul baskets by Rees, shortly before the over-time period ended, deciding the issue.

The affair was just as close as the score indicates, with Dover possibly holding a slight edge in the first three quarters. It was featured by the strong defensive play of both quintets and the stellar all-around performance of Raymond Low, Dover captain, who for the past two seasons has been awarded a forward position on the All-Ohio team.

Both teams scored only seven goals from action during the game, the two fouls in the extra three minutes of play being the deciding factors in forcing Coach Floyd Stone's lads into submission for the third straight time this season. Dover players caged nine free throws to Salem's seven.

Low Outstanding Player
Low was the principal factor in the Salem varsity's defeat for he held high score honors for the evening with 10 points and was the key-man in both offensive and defensive attacks of the Tuscarawas county school.

The all-star forward snagged the first points of the game, caging a long shot from the center of the court shortly after the opening whistle sounded. Bill Smith had the first scoring opportunity, missing a shot from the foul line, after he was fouled by Bill Smith. Second, of the Dover team, Ed Beck tied the score by caging two throws from the foul stripe. Low was fouled by Sartick and caged the point and Smith of Salem again knotted the count with a free throw.

Both teams attempted to penetrate the other's defense time after time with no noticeable results. Dover passed through the Salem team on several occasions but was unable to make its shots at the basket count while the Salem forwards were forced to try shots at the bucket from points near the center of the court.

Score Tied At Quarter
Neither team was able to add another marker to its total during the opening period and it ended with the score knotted, 3-3. Greenstein fouled Teglo at the start of the second session, the Dover guard counting the gift shot. Smith of Dover, connected for a field goal immediately after and Low dribbled over to the side of the court on the succeeding tip-off, looping the leather through the hoop for a sensational goal, to give his team a 9-3 lead. He was fouled by W. Smith on the shot and counted the free throw.

W. Smith was fouled by B. Smith but he failed in the gift attempt. He followed through, however, and caged the field basket. On the next lay Smith again scored, caging a spectacular shot from the side of the court. Low scored again from the field and the half ended with the score 11-7.

Salem started strong early in the third session and tied the score in less than a minute of play. Greenstein tried a long shot from the center of the court and missed. He followed through in great style and caged a sensational tip showed. Bill Smith was fouled by Smith of Dover, who was disqualified on fouls. He was replaced by Reifensnyder, Dover football star.

Smith Ties Score
Smith tied the score, making both foul attempts good for markers. Teglo was fouled by Greenstein in attempting an under-basket shot and increased Dover's lead two points as a result. Teglo came back a minute later to add two points to the lead with a fielder from the center of the floor. Rees fouled Whinnery but the Salem center missed the free try. Sartick scored his first goal of the game, bringing Salem within two points of Dover's total. Sartick's shot was a long affair from back of the center of the floor which whizzed through the basket without touching the hoop. Teglo was called for holding Whinnery, whose successful attempt from the foul line made the score 15-14, Dover leading.

Reifensnyder missed a foul shot, awarded him after he was held by Whinnery but Teglo scored a point from the gift basket. Low missed two straight free attempts, the last chances either team had during the quarter, which ended with Dover ahead, 16-14. Schmidt fouled Teglo as just as the period ended, the Dover right guard making the attempt good during the intermission to increase his team's lead to three points.

Bill Smith scored a point from the foul-line but Low retaliated with another long shot from the center, increasing the score to 19-15. Whinnery zoomed a long one through the hoop from the three-quarter mark and Sartick caged his second and last fielder of the game to tie the score. Greenstein

THE DAY In Sports

FANS SEE CAGE STAR FOUR GAMES TONIGHT
SALEM GIRLS LOSE

History is expected to repeat itself tonight when the Salem High varsity clashes with Nelsonville, Southern Ohio High school basketball team. The Red and Black lost its first three games of the season last year and met Nelsonville in its fourth engagement of the schedule. The southern state combine dropped a 31-14 decision to the Stone-men.

This season the situation is almost identical. Salem High again has lost three straight and tonight faces Nelsonville. All hope available concerning this latter team seems to indicate that the Stone-men should again break into the victory column at its expense.

Salem fans again were able to avail themselves of a view at one of Ohio's outstanding scholastic basketballers in Raymond Low, star Dover high forward, in the varsity clash here last night. Low has been given a place on the first All-Ohio team for the past two seasons and was mentioned for honors three years ago when he was a member of the team which won the state title. He has won a varsity basketball letter each of his four years at school.

Last Saturday Russell Esley, Akron East High, was the factor in inflicting the Stone-men their second straight defeat. Esley this season is rated as the smoothest performer on the basketball court in Ohio. He won all-district honors in the Akron tournament two straight years but due to the fact that East did not participate in the state competition was not considered for All-Ohio laurels.

Another feature event on tonight's basketball menu is the Penn-Ohio German league clash at the Memorial building. The Salem Saxons meet the Farrell (Pa.) team. It will be the locals second league contest.

Salem High girls lost their first game of the season last night, being defeated by the strong Columbiana High sextet at Columbiana, by a 38-34 score.

Tonight's first game at the school gym starts at 7 o'clock. The reserve team meets Rogers High varsity in the opener with Salem High lads opposing the Business College in the second game. Stone's varsity clashes with Nelsonville in the feature fracas, billed to get under way at 9.

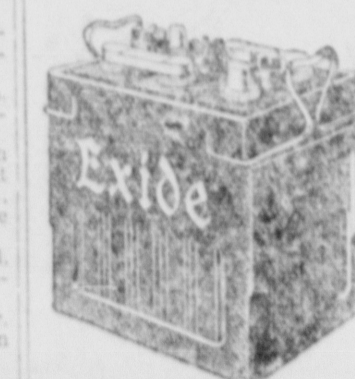

Much interest is being displayed in the main event due to the fact that Floyd Stone, head Salem High mentor, was head coach at that school previous to coming here as director of Red and Black athletic destinies.

Reserves Win Easy Victory

Hanoverton High Varsity Drops 40-26 Decision To Red and Black

Salem High reserves had an easy time with the Hanoverton High varsity, winning by a 40-26 score in the preliminary contest to the varsity tilt at the Salem gym Friday night.

The reserves outclassed the visiting aggregation throughout the entire contest. Coach Floyd Stone used four full teams, 16 of the players, breaking into the scoring column.

Salem started on its scoring excursion early in the first period and had an 11-5 lead at the end of the quarter. The reserves celebrated paring the second quarter. Hanoverton holding it to a 19-19 score for the half-time action.

The consistent changing of lineups and combinations in the game handicapped the reserves to some extent but they added 13 points to their total in the third session while Hanoverton was held to two field baskets. Hanoverton's best player was the fourth, when it outscored the Salemites for the first time.

Nearly every Salem player injected into action participated in the scoring.
